DOCTOR AWAITS LOCKJAW DEATH

Accidentally Inoculated Himself with Anti-Tetanus Serum While Attending Dying Child and Expects to Die.

DISCUSSES HIS CASE AND PROBABLE RESULT.

Dr. L. A. Rood, a prominent Iowa physician, the victim, and other medical men agree as to his probable fate.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 26.—Dr. L. D. Rood, a prominent physician, accidentally inoculated himself with anti-tetanus serum while attending a child who was dying of lockjaw, and to-day his friends were startled by his announcement that he expects to be dead in one week.

"I am feverishly awaiting the approach of next Saturday, when I shall know whether I am to live or to die," said Dr. L. D. Rood.

Dr. Scholer and Dr. Charles Smith were consulted by Dr. Rood. Dr. Smith said:

"If the inoculation took place it will be known in two or three days, and then, if so, Dr. Rood must die."

GIRL SAYS MAN TRIED TO KILL HER

Prisoner Admits He Struck Young Woman with His Fist and Charges Her with Attempt to Steal His Watch.

Charged with assault, John Bohman, twenty years old, of No. 431 East Seventy-first street, was released in $500 bail for trial in General Sessions after an examination before Magistrate Mayo in Jefferson Market Police Court today. He is accused of attacking Adeline, of No. 102 West Thirty-second street, Saturday evening.

A blackjack, said to have been used by the prisoner, was produced in evidence, but Bohman denied its ownership.

"He tried to kill me and steal my jewelry," declared the woman, exhibiting a slight abrasion on her head, where she said she had been struck with the weapon.

"She lured me to the place and attempted to steal my watch and I struck her with my fist," said the prisoner.

After listening to the conflicting testimony the Magistrate held Bohman. The defendant's father gave bail for his son's release.

SNOW FALLS UP THE STATE.

Buffalo Gets Some and the Adirondack Foot Hills Covered.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Hail and wet snow fell for several hours here today.

The Adirondack foothills are mantled with snow the result of a heavy squall this morning. Snow in October is something of a rarity for the lower Adirondacks. The weather is cold and raw in that region.

There were also frequent snow flurries at Elmira, Middletown, Bath and Ithaca.

HEAVY LAKE STORM.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26.—A heavy northwesterly gale prevailed all over Lake Erie throughout last night and today, the wind reaching a velocity of forty-eight miles an hour this morning.

A tremendous sea is sweeping over the harbor breaker. An empty yawlboat was sighted and picked up off this port this afternoon by the life-saving crew. There was no name on the yawl.

WEATHER FORECAST. Forecast for the thirty-six hours ending at 8 P. M. Tuesday for New York City and vicinity: Generally fair and cold; to-night, Tuesday fair; high northwest winds.

Shoppers and Public Dealers will find the Price of an additional one for comparison, see page 10.

RACE TRACK, AQUEDUCT, Oct. 26.—It was a great day for long shots.

Favorite down before horses despatched by bettors with as much ease as a forty-mile an hour breeze. It made Aqueduct's opening day one long to be remembered. Only one favorite won, that Julia M., in the sixth race.

Athlana, at 100 to 1, ran away at the first race. All Gold, at 8 to 1, took the second. Juvenal Maxim, in some books quoted at 4 to 1, captured the third. Wild Thyme, at 7 to 2, got in first in the fourth event, and Scotch Plume, hardly played by anybody, romped in with the fifth race at odds of 40 to 1. In the same race, which not one played horse got in the money, Belle of Belle Meade, at 100 to 1, finished second and Oriskany, quoted at 300 to 1, got third money.

E. P. BRYAN TO MEET BROTHERHOOD CHIEFS.

General Manager E. P. Bryan, of the Interborough Rapid Transit, this afternoon sent a letter to the international officers of the locomotive engineers and firemen's brotherhood, telling them that he would be glad to meet them and their associates to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock and canvass the difficulty which threatens a strike on the entire "L" system.

PRETTY WOMAN DIES STRANGELY

Hospital Doctor Said Cause Was Alcoholism, but Coroner's Physician O'Hanlon Is Suspicious of Bruises.

An autopsy will be necessary to determine the cause of the death of Maude Blanche Hayes, a beautiful young woman who expired last night in a small furnished room at No. 273 West Thirty-sixth street. A doctor who was summoned from Roosevelt Hospital said she died of heart disease, superinduced by alcoholism, but Coroner's physician O'Hanlon is not entirely satisfied that her death was natural.

There are bruises on the neck and face of the corpse and black and blue marks on the body. These marks look as though they were inflicted in the course of a beating, but they may have been caused by falls in the room.

The Hayes girl came here from Sandusky, O., some years ago with her mother. She was an actress and playwright, condoning herself in this line to the production of melodramas for cheap road companies in the West.

Met Son of Rich Brewer. Soon after her arrival she met the young son of a wealthy brewer, and they lived together in various parts of the city until last July, when he left her after a quarrel. They had apartments then at No. 302 West Thirty-fourth street. The mother of the girl, Mrs. Hayes, gave her no medicine, but brandy and milk, and the servants in the house say that she was kept in a condition of semi-consciousness and that she was unable to get out of bed when she would fall on the floor and her mother would be compelled to summon assistance from others in the house.

Prescription Not Filled. Yesterday afternoon the condition of the young woman became so critical that Dr. A. H. Riedel, of No. 276 West Thirty-eighth street, was summoned. He prescribed a medicine, but it was not filled, and she died.

Pleaded for Delay. Dr. Osborne asked that the case go over because of the extreme nervousness of the defendant and the fact that he had affidavits from eminent physicians that she had chronic tuberculosis and cannot live more than a year. He pleaded for delay.

In an affidavit Mr. Osborne himself signed it was set forth that he had been unable to get a detailed statement from Parks because of the walking delegate's nervousness, that whenever in his office the prisoner could only talk a few minutes without being compelled to leave the room because of coughing.

Mr. Osborne read the affidavits of Dr. Winfield Ayres, of No. 113 West Ninety-first street, and Dr. J. J. Ayres, of No. 113 West Ninety-first street.

Published official figures of the American News Company proved conclusively that the daily circulation of The World in New York City is one of the greatest of any newspaper in the world.

COURT FORCES PARKS TO TRIAL

Judge Newburger Rejects Walking Delegate's Plea for Delay on the Ground that He Has Chronic Tuberculosis.

THREE PHYSICIANS SAY LABOR MAN IS VERY ILL.

Work of Getting a Jury in the Tiffany Studio Building Case Proceeds and the Box Is Rapidly Being Filled.

JURORS IN PARKS CASE.

FREDERICK W. SCHWERS, lawyer and feed dealer, Bedford Park.

AARON S. SILVERBERG, No. 250 West One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street.

RICHMOND B. HARTFIELD, bookkeeper, of No. 304 West One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street.

CHARLES LEITZ, of No. 643 East One Hundred and Sixty-sixth street.

JOHN J. SCHMIDT, of No. 971 Lexington avenue.

JOHN B. STOKES, accountant, No. 251 West 118th street.

Although affidavits signed by Dr. Winfield Ayres, Dr. Egbert Le Fevre and Dr. Abraham Jacob stating that "Sam" Parks is suffering from chronic tuberculosis and that a trial at this time would shorten his life were filed before Judge Newburger to-day the Court held that the case must proceed at once.

The walking delegate is accused of blackmailing contractors out of $30,000 by calling strikes and then ending them for a consideration, but the specific charge upon which he is now being tried is the extortion of $500 from Louis Schmidt, contractor for the erection of the Tiffany studio building. He is also under indictment for perjury at the trial on the charge of extortion made by Josephus Plentz. In the Plentz case he was convicted and sent to Sing Sing, but released to await the result of his appeal to the highest court in the State.

As Parks walked into court to-day and took his seat alongside of his counsel, there were no words of the building about him. He looked like a whipped man. His last friend had gone back on him—William S. Devery.

Parks had to stop in the Tombs, because Devery's friends, who were on his bonds, refused to renew the obligation.

Why Devery Deserted Him. Devery, in explaining why he had deserted Parks the other day when he had to plead to a charge of perjury, said:

"I'm through with a man who tries to give me the double cross. Sam Parks can't work me and flirt with Murphy and other Tammany leaders and have me for his friend."

Parks, the walking delegate, was and is to-day the ruling spirit of the House-smiths and the judges of the Union Square. According to District Attorney Jerome he held builders up on every possible occasion, and even went so far as to extract $50,000 from W. E. D. Stokes to settle strikes.

This information was given to the District Attorney by Henry Farley, clerk of the court, who confessed that he had committed perjury at the last Parks trial in trying to prove an alibi for the accused.

The opening of the case was delayed more than an hour because of the great number of talsmen called on the special pane.

Parks was dressed in a mixed gray suit of expensive make. His hair hasn't grown much since it was shorn by the Sing Sing barber, when he had to wear convict stripes until liberated by a certificate of reasonable doubt on $18,000 bail pending a disposition of his case before the Court of Appeals.

The walking delegate dropped into a seat alongside of his counsel, James W. Osborne, the ex-Assistant District Attorney who twice tried Roland B. Moore's case, and looked cheerful. After whispering to Mr. Osborne about the absence of Bartow S. Weeks, Parks turned to the reporters and said:

"Get Sam Parks's picture in the paper."

It was said with the same conceit that the defendant and the fact that since he has been in trouble. Assistant District Attorney Rand told Judge Newburger that the people were ready to go on with the case.

Pleaded for Delay. Dr. Osborne asked that the case go over because of the extreme nervousness of the defendant and the fact that he had affidavits from eminent physicians that she had chronic tuberculosis and cannot live more than a year. He pleaded for delay.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 26.—Senator William M. Stewart, of Nevada, and Mrs. M. A. Cone, of Madison, Ga., will be married to-night at the Piedmont Hotel.

Senator Thomas M. Norwood, of Savannah, will be the best man.

Senator Stewart is about seventy years old, and Mrs. Cone, who is a Georgia Fair branch of the New York Central Railroad Company at Fancher, N. Y., is about thirty.

Mystery surrounds the affair. Neither Senator Jones nor Judge Nye will give out any information, and both tried hard to prevent the publication of facts.

The illness of one of Mrs. Cone's relatives is said to be the reason the ceremony is not to be performed at her home in Madison.

ROOT COMING HOME.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Secretary of War Root and Mrs. Root and Lord and Lady Algernon Gordon-Lennox will be passengers on the White Star line steamer "Celtic," which is to sail from Liverpool on Monday.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Miss Catherine C. Reddy, a pretty woman from Yonkers, who sat in an invalid chair in Justice Gaynor's Supreme Court at White Plains to-day, wept as she told the jury of injuries she received in a crash of the Niagara Falls branch of the New York Central Railroad Company at Fancher, N. Y.

After testifying she was taken into the corridor, where she faint and had to be looked after by a doctor. Through ex-District Attorney Olcott, of New York, she sued for $100,000 damages for her injuries, and the jury gave her $50,000.

This is declared to be the largest award ever given for personal injuries to a passenger in any railroad wreck in the State.
